

Graphical abstract representing that the presence of the volatile shape directing agent helps the orientation of the ZnO film toward the family of planes (002).